Union Pacific 9000 is an important part of steam evolution history and one of only 3 three-cylinder steam locomotives preserved. ©2015 Ryan C Kunkle, licensed to About.com, Inc. George Stephenson invented the steam locomotive, the predecessor of modern trains, in 1814. After 10 months of tinkering, Stephenson, who worked in the coal mining industry, produced his first train, which he named, Blucher. Stephenson's track was only 450 feet long, but his engine pulled eight loaded coal wagons weighing 30 tons at about 4 mph. Since then, trains have been an integral part of the world and American history, notes History.com: Trains helped the North win the Civil War.The world's first travel agency got its start thanks to a train journey. Railways gave us standardized time zones. Railroad miles in the United States peaked in 1916 (by nearly 400,000 miles). As of 2014, there were still more than 160,000 miles of train tracks in the U.S., with each mile generating more than $820,0000 a year, according to Rail Service. Teach students these and other interesting train facts using free printables offered in the following slides. Print the PDF: Train Word searches In this first activity, students search for 10 words that are often linked to trains. Use the activity to discover what they already know about trains and spark discussion about the terms with which they are unknown. Print the PDF: Trains vocabulary In this activity, students fit each of the 10 words of the word bank to the correct definition. It is a perfect way for students to learn important terms related to trains. Print the pdf: Train Crossword Invite your students to learn more about trains by matching the clue with the correct term in this fun crossword puzzle. Each key term is included in a word bank to make the activity accessible to younger students. Print the pdf: Trains Challenge This multiple choice challenge tests your student's knowledge of the facts regarding trains. Let your child practice their research skills by doing research in your local library or on the Internet to discover the answers to questions he's unsure about. Print the PDF: Trains Alphabet Activity Elementary School Students can use this activity to practice their alphabetizing skills. They will place the words related to trains in alphabetical order. Print the pdf: Trains draw and write Page Young children or students can draw a picture of a train and write a short sentence about it. Alternative: Give students pictures of different types of trains - such as steam, diesel or electric motor - and then let them draw an image of the train they chose. Print the pdf: Treinen Tic-Tac-Toe Page Prepare for tic-tac-toe play in advance by cutting the pieces off on the dotted line and then cutting the pieces apart - or have older children do this themselves. Then, have fun playing train tic-tac-toe - with level crossings signs and and hats, with your students. The PDF print: Trains Visor. Have students make a train visor by cutting out the visor and punching holes where indicated. Tie an elastic string to the visor that fits it to the child's head or the student's head size. If you are using yarn or other rope, use two pieces and tie a bow in the back to fit the child's head. Print the PDF: Train theme paper. Invite students to examine facts about trains -- on the Internet or in books -- and then write a brief summary of what they learned on this train theme paper. To motivate students, show a short documentary about trains before they tackle the paper. Print the pdf: Train Puzzle Kids will love to put this train puzzle together. Let them cut out the pieces, mix them together and then put them back together. Explain to the students that before trains were invented, most horse-drawn goods had to be moved over land.
